TO G7

THE RIGHT HON. SIR MICHAEL O'LOGHLEN, BART., MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

SIR,

THE suspension of the Irish Record Commission left a chasm in the arrangement of the Records connected with an important period of Irish History, which anxiety for the public service made me desirous to fill up; and it was with much satisfaction that I saw myself enabled, after long continued attention to the subject, to present to the literary and professional inquirer, "a Calendar of the Grants under the Commission of Grace, in the Reigns of Charles II. and James II.," forming a sequel and completion of that of the "Grants under the Act of Settlement," previously compiled and published under the authority of the late Commission.

Having proceeded so far, my attention was naturally drawn from the portion I had arranged, to the daily increasing collection, which, if neglected during their accumulation, would become, at no very distant period, fully as inaccessible for any purpose of reference, as those to the contents of which I had laboured to provide an accurate and efficient guide. What I could not but anticipate, I resolved upon an additional effort to avert; and such intervals as I could snatch from official duties, have been sedulously employed in the compilation of a "Repertory to the Patent Rolls of Chancery, during the Reign of his late Majesty, William the Fourth." The utility of such a work must be manifest, on a consideration of the contents of those Rolls; namely, Grants from the Crown, Pardons, Patents for Inventions, Presentations, Acts of Council, and a long list of other documents. I have subjected to a similar arrangement the Inrolments of Deeds substituted for Fines and Recoveries, under the 4th and 5th William IV., cap. 92, and of Deeds for the Transfer of Ecclesiastical property, under the 6th and 7th Wm. IV., cap. 99. These are now in the press, and will, when ready, be bound up with the present volume. In all the above-named Abstracts I have endeavoured to preserve the compendious form suitable to a volume of reference; it will not appear inconsistent, that in some instances I have confessed the obvious utility of extracting the very language of the Roll.

The result of my labours I have now, Sir, the honour to present to you. Of the urgent and increasing necessity of some clue through a labyrinth so extensive and so intricate, I should idly speak to one so qualified to pronounce upon it. In extenuation of the faults from which I dare not hope you will find its execution free, I can only plead the motive with which it was undertaken.

Taking leave of that which has been to me an object of long and solicitous employment, I shall, I trust, be pardoned if I express my anxious hope that the same enlightened spirit that dictated a recent legislative provision for the security of the Public Records of England, may extend to this country the benefit of a similar provision, and a like superintendence for documents equally important, whether they be regarded as serving to illustrate our national history, or as the expositors of individual rights; treasures of which it is difficult to decide whether they belong with a greater "emphasis of interest," to the civilian or to the sage.

I have the honor to be,

SIR,

Your obedient servant,

2601

GEORGE HATCHELL.

3. Charter to the Provost and Fellows of Trinity College, Dublin, substituting, in place of the 4th chapter of the statute, which made no provision for inability occasioned by sickness, and as the Provost and Senior Fellows are thereby prevented in case of the absence of a Senior Fellow from calling to their assistance, at an examination for

Trinity College, Dublin.

Fellowships, the Professors of Natural Philosophy and Mathematics, should the same, although Junior Fellows, not be next in seniority: a clause empowering the Provost and Senior Fellows, on the occasions aforesaid, to supply the place of a Senior Fellow, during his absence, or sickness, by the Professors of Natural Philosophy and Mathematics. And as the portion of the year allotted for instruction was too short in relation to that usually employed in examination, and that the Trinity Term is so very short as (after deducting the time so employed,) to afford no opportunity for any effective course of Lectures, and that it would be unreasonable that at the beginning of the following, or Michaelmas Term, the students should be examined without the benefit of previous instruction on the subject of that examination; for these reasons, it is directed that the year should be divided into three terms, fixed of sufficient duration, with three intervening vacations. Giving also to the Provost and Senior Fellows power to change the hours of morning service, and lecture with the consent of the visitors. That Divine Service should be celebrated only twice every day, agreeably to the usages of most of the colleges in Oxford and Cambridge. That the performance of the evening service should belong to the office of the junior dean. That instead of holding annual, or other ordinary visitations, the visitors should be empowered to visit the college whensoever they, in their discretion, should deem expedient for just and weighty causes to hold such visitations, with power to continue the same from day to day, or adjourn from time to time, and hold the same for as many days as they shall think necessary for the performance of the several matters and things to be by them done and performed.—Dated 1st, and Inrolled 27th March, 1833, page 17.

IV., entitled, "An Act for regulating and enabling the City of Dublin Steam Packet Company to sue and be sued, and thereby to encourage the use of vessels propelled by steam in the trade of Ireland," the several parties aforesaid are constituted into a Company, under the style of The City of Dublin Steam Packet Company; to continue for the residue of a term of 99 years, from the 10th May, 1825, for the purpose of carrying on a trading with ships and vessels propelled by steam or otherwise, between the ports of Dublin and Liverpool. Reciting that the capital stock or fund of said Company consist of £230,000. That the property and effects of the said Company shall be vested in said Charles Wye Williams, Richard Williams, and James Jameson, as trustees for said Company, who, together with James Ferrier, Joseph Robinson Pim, William Dixon, Sir John Tobin, Alexander Parlane, and George Parsons, are appointed trustees to construct or purchase steam vessels. That the said Charles W. Williams continue to be acting manager, with power to build, purchase, and repair the several vessels of said Company, and be entrusted with the general conduct and management of same, with a salary of £1200 per annum. That there shall be continued to be kept at the office of said Company in Dublin, books of account, wherein shall be daily entered all voyages, freights, dealings, and transactions of said Company. That the trustees and proprietors, assignee or assignees, or holders of stock, may have access to the books, for the purpose of inspecting the same. That the trustees be composed of nine persons, who shall have all the powers and privileges, and be subject to and bound by the several covenants in relation to their duty as are thereby provided. That whensoever a vacancy occur in the office of trustee, the remaining trustees shall, within six months, elect by ballot a new trustee. That no person be qualified for such office, unless he be proprietor of £1000 stock of the Company. That four of the present and future trustees be resident in the town of Liverpool, and the same number in Dublin. That two half-yearly meetings of the proprietors shall be held at the Company's office in Dublin, one within 40 days from the 1st of February, the other within 40 days from the 1st of August. That the trustees shall, with at least 21 days' notice, call the half-yearly general meeting, by advertising same in two or more Dublin or Liverpool newspapers, with power to call a special general meeting at any time, and whenever an adjournment takes place in consequence of a difference in the number of proprietors, the trustees shall call the adjourned general meeting by similar advertisements.—That the present trustees shall investigate and audit the accounts, with reference to the capital already paid, and the application thereof, and report to the next half-yearly meeting the result of such investigation.—That the trustees shall establish rules for discharging their duty, and that at every of their meetings the names of the trustees attending be entered in the minutes of their proceedings, in a book to be kept for that purpose.—That six or more of the trustees be at liberty to declare the powers of any one or more of their co-trustees to be suspended, until a special general meeting shall take such act into their consideration, and confirm or rescind the same. Which said deed also contains a great number of other clauses, covenants, and agreements.—Inrolled 20th April, 1833.
